BANDS, VARIETY OF FLOATS FEATURED

Hundreds Witness Spectacular Parade

Witnessed by hundreds of spectators, five smart-stepping bands, ingenious floats in colorful variety, and gay costumes and decorations on a historical theme made the Jaycee Jubilee-Centennial parade at noon today, a spectacular highlight of Penticton's Jubilee-Centennial week.

The "Lady Godiva" entry, which the Jaycees had announced was to be a part of the parade from a nudist club near Seattle, failed to appear. "Sorry, Lady Godiva cancelled by order of parade's marshal," explained a sign on the Jaycee float. "Watch for Sub."

The "sub" turned out to be Jaycee president Wally Harrison in bikini bathing attire, and wig, astride a white horse.

FLOAT WINNERS

The 10 Cub Packs of the Penticton District won first prize among the non-commercial entries with a float entitled "Jungleland of Cubbing," stuffed with jungle foliage and complete snakes, monkeys, a cougar and other animals.

The Jaycee covered wagon entry came second in the non-commercial section with honorable mention going to floats entered by Enderby Lionettes and Okanagan Falls Centennial Royalty.

In the commercial section, Hudson's Bay Co. float won first prize depicting one of the company's early fur trading posts, Naramata. Garage's "Answer to Lady Godiva"—a smoke belching vintage auto with lopsided wheels and riders in old-time costumes, won the second commercial prize.

Honorable mention went to the B. A. Oil Co., Trev's Boat Rentals, Penticton Advertiser and Canadian Legion Branch 40.

In the humorous children's entries, Wendy Reorda came first with Hugh Eson second and La Verne and Gordon Phillips third.

Among the vintage car entries, first prize went to W. McMadge with Bill Austin and Don Gilbert of Summerland winning second and Howard and White Motors, Penticton, third.

Miss Leslie Finnerty was awarded first for the most authentic centennial costume. Second prize went to Mrs. Pearl Howard and third to Mary Reorda.

Judges were Mrs. Mae Tait (nee Burtch) of Vancouver, and John T. Young and Wallace Mutch of Penticton. Eric Ramsden of Vancouver was honorary judge.

There were a total of 51 entries in the parade, most of which were on the centennial theme. Special cars bore Miss Kathleen Ellis, first person born in Penticton; the city's first centennial year baby, Glen Adrian Moylis and his mother; and Mrs. and Mr. J. B. Bingham of Penticton for whom Penticton's 50th birthday year is their 50th wedding anniversary.

Bands participating were the B.C. Dragons Pipe Band, the South Okanagan High School Band from Oliver; the MacIntosh Girls' Pipe Band from Vernon; the Penticton High School Band; and the Summerland Town Band.

Major Victor Wilson was parade marshal starting the parade exactly as the city's fire siren blew a prolonged blast for the noon signal.

Route of the parade, from Fairview Road north along Main Street to Lakeshore Drive thence to the dispersal point in front of the S.S. Scamoux, was lined solidly with hundreds of Pentictonites watching from along the sidewalks and from upper-storey office buildings.

U.S. PLANES ON ALERT IN TROUBLED MID-EAST

RCMP GIVEN HELPING HAND

Brought into service to help RCMP direct traffic at Penticton's big centennial parade today were members of the Civil Defence auxiliary police.

Checking the parade route with Const. D. Poole, left, are Frank Hunter, centre, and C. G. Miller.

Huge Transports Fly to Germany

WASHINGTON (AP) — A force of huge cargo planes began heading out of the United States today for Germany. They would be capable of transporting troops into the troubled Middle East or evacuating persons from the area if necessary.

The first of 18 transports began taking off from Donaldson air force base, S.C., this morning the air force said.

In Germany, the C-124 transports will be at the disposal of the air force commander in Europe for whatever use he needs to make of them.

An air force spokesman was asked if the transports would be used in connection with the evacuation of Americans or for other purposes in riot-ridden Lebanon. He replied tersely: "If needed."

NO TROOPS REQUESTED

The state department said a short while before that consideration is being given to measures for protecting Americans in Lebanon but that no request for U.S. troops has been received from the Lebanese government.

"It would therefore be undesirable to speculate upon contingencies in which such forces might be sent," a state department statement said.

The air force said the C-124 transports carried neither troops nor equipment as they left Donaldson. It called the move "part of over-all air force training operations."

In addition to the 18 planes involved in the takeoff announced today, other aircraft are on alert for possible use. The eventual total number involved in the operation could be between 36 and 40 the spokesman said.

The state department said that consideration of ways to protect U.S. citizens in Lebanon should not be taken as an indication that the United States has concluded that national authorities are not able and prepared to maintain order there.

14 Killed as Blast Crumples Paris Building

PARIS (AP) — Fourteen persons were killed today and 20 others were injured when a gasoline tank explosion crumpled a five-storey building in the Montmartre section of Paris.

Rescue teams were digging through the rubble to reach more persons believed buried underneath.

Among the victims were a number of children from a nearby public school.

The blast was touched off by a spark from an electric motor which a motorist tried to extinguish when he noticed a leak of gasoline during a pumping operation.

Bombings Continue To Strike Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (Reuters) — Explosions continued to rumble through Lebanon today as the government grappled with rebel anti-Western factions.

Three more bombs blew up in the capital today, injuring several persons. Police continued their hunt for hidden time bombs and combed the city for terrorists, arresting many Syrians.

(Reports from Cairo said Lebanese authorities had rounded up and expelled 470 Syrians while newspapers in Damascus said 1,200 Syrian residents were expelled from Lebanon on Friday night.)

President Camille Chamoun staged a series of conferences with leaders from all parts of the small Middle East nation in an attempt to solidify his control.

A week of rioting has cost more than 80 lives while at least 300 persons have been injured.

Three anti-Western newspapers were shut for three days today under a strict press law. Today's editions of some other opposition newspapers also were confiscated.

The government appeared to be regaining control in the central and northern regions of the nation.

Settlement Of CPR Ship Strike Fades

VANCOUVER (CP) — The wage strike of 350 members of the Seafarers' International Union against Canadian Pacific Steamships proceeded on schedule Friday midnight with no sign of an early settlement.

Before the strike deadline, Canadian Pacific tied up nine of its 10 vessels which carry cargo and passengers between here and Seattle, Vancouver Island, up coast B.C. and Alaska.

The Princess Louise, the 10th vessel, will be tied up Monday on her return from Alaska.

Breach in Canada's Security Claimed

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canadian Embassy officials said today there must have been a breach of Canadian security regulations in the fact that Senator Wayne Morse has possession of a confidential letter written to the embassy by former prime minister St. Laurent.

An embassy spokesman said the Canadian government has been advised of Morse's possession of the letter, which the Oregon Democrat read into the record of a Senate committee hearing Friday.

"We will do whatever Ottawa instructs us to do," the spokesman said when asked whether the embassy intended to investigate.

Morse read the letter, written by St. Laurent to former Canadian ambassador Arnold Heeney in November, 1956, into the record of a Senate foreign relations committee hearing on Canadian-American relations.

TAX PROTEST

The letter instructed Heeney to deliver to the state department a diplomatic note protesting the U.S. treasury's action in attempting to claim from a Canadian mining company, Premium Iron Ore Ltd., $4,000,000 it says the company owes in back U.S. taxes.

Canada claims the company is not taxable by the United States.

"I would think very definitely there must have been a breach of security regulations in the fact a U.S. senator has a copy of a private, confidential letter written by the Canadian prime minister to the Canadian ambassador," the embassy spokesman said.

"You don't expect U.S. senators to read private Canadian correspondence into the record of the United States Senate."

The spokesman said the embassy had no idea how the letter came to be in Morse's possession.

Morse himself could not be reached for comment.

Named Pastor Of Presbyterian Church in City

Rev. F. R. (Ralph) Kendall, Winnipeg-born graduate of the Presbyterian College at McGill, has been named pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Penticton.

The appointment is Mr. Kendall's first ordained charge. Arriving in the city late yesterday, he will conduct his first services in the church tomorrow.

Mr. Kendall succeeds the late Rev. Samuel McGindrey as pastor at St. Andrew's.

He attended Carleton University at Ottawa, receiving his B.A. degree there, before entering the Presbyterian College.

Before coming to his first ordained charge here, Mr. Kendall served at Kimberley, Vancouver, and with French congregations in the eastern townships of Quebec.

Six Hurt in Car Accidents

A 15-year-old Penticton boy and his sister were injured in a car accident at the intersection of Upper Bench Road and Naramata Road Friday.

Admitted to Penticton hospital with lacerations were Bruce Rowland, 15, and Marcela Rowland, 5, of Vancouver avenue.

At the hospital this morning both were stated to be in "good" condition.

Police report that the accident occurred at 5:30 p.m. The car was proceeding in the direction of Naramata when it left the road, went over an embankment and came to rest against a fruit tree. Damage to the car, according to the police, is estimated at $800. No other vehicle was involved.

Two Penticton men were hospitalized after their car struck a parked vehicle on Ellis Street at 11:50 last night.

Tony Bent Hansen, driver of the car, of 513 Ellis Street and passenger Angelo Rishberg, 600 Haywood Street, received lacerations. Both were in "good condition," it was stated at the hospital this morning.

According to police Hansen collided with a car owned by Donald George Kerr, 326 Ellis, and parked outside his home.

Total damage to the two vehicles is estimated at $450, police stated.

CAR ROLLS OVER

In another accident, a car was totally wrecked when it left Highway 97 and rolled over, one and a half miles south of Trout Creek, police reported today.

The driver, Melvin Arnold Gillespie, a passenger, Colin Alexander, both of Summerland, were taken to Penticton hospital after the accident.

Gillespie was released after treatment. Alexander's condition is "fair," the Herald was told this morning.

Police state that no other vehicle was involved.

Scripture—Numbers 13:17-14:15

The children of Israel had come to the border of the promised land. Moses chose 12 men, one from each tribe, to spy in the land to see what it was like and what type of people lived in it.

The 12 men came back, bringing some of the fruit from the land, saying it was indeed a land flowing with milk and honey. But some said that the Israelites would not be able to conquer the strong people there.

Caleb said: "Let us go up at once and possess it (the land). For the Lord is with us, then He will bring us into this land, and give it to us. Only rebel not ye against the Lord."

Joshua and Caleb insisted that the land was good, and "If the Lord be with us, then He will bring us into this land, and give it to us. Only rebel not ye against the Lord."

Tough Gov't Stand Seen In Rail Strike Threats

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor leaders think Prime Minister Diefenbaker has served notice his government will get tough if it looks as though the railways might be tied up in a strike.

Which said it might get tough with—railway or union—does not appear to have emerged clearly.

But union leaders say Mr. Diefenbaker served several veiled warnings at private talks here last week in which he was trying—unsuccessfully—to stave off the strike of CPR firemen that started last Sunday and ended Tuesday night.

AWARE OF DUTIES

One official said Mr. Diefenbaker several times talked to the disputants to the effect that "I intend to carry out my responsibilities to all the people of Canada."

This was in the latter part of the week preceding the strike. It was followed by a declaration in the throne speech read at the opening of Parliament Monday by Governor General Massey that "my government will be ready in the light of the events to recommend such action as the national interest demands and circumstances may require."

No informant would try to interpret exactly what the prime minister meant, in the light of his party's declared policy against compulsory arbitration in labor disputes and his own personal declarations against forcible government intervention in such disputes.

AGAINST INTERFERENCE

A further factor is that Mr. Diefenbaker, at Winnipeg late last month, addressing the biennial convention of the Canadian Labor Congress, told delegates that he favors the least possible amount of government interference in labor-management scraps.

In the dispute between the CPR and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC) which he tried to mediate, Mr. Diefenbaker did not have to swing the big stick to keep the trains running.

He had been told, it was understood, that the firemen had been informed by the other rail unions they would not support a strike and that the firemen could not win. As it turned out, the trains generally kept running.

ACTED AS INTERMEDIARY

The prime minister, according to informants, put no heat on either of the disputants for a settlement. It appears he acted largely as an intermediary in passing along proposals between one side and the other and setting up meetings for them.

But two more big railway-union scraps could land in the lap of the cabinet before long. In one or another of these Mr. Diefenbaker might be inclined to throw some weight around.

The first is that between the firemen's union and the publicly-owned CNR over the same issue that precipitated the CPR firemen's strike—the question of cutting down the number of firemen employed on diesel locomotive service.

However, this one could be settled quietly on the basis of the CPR-union settlement without it being dragged through Ottawa.

SECOND INVOLVES WAGES

But one that is virtually sure to land on the doorstep of the government—and this is the big one of the moment—is that between the major railways and the non-operating unions representing about 130,000 employees on the two transcontinental roads and several smaller lines.

Canadian Stock Markets Down

By GERRY MARTIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Investment in Canadian stock exchanges developed along two lines this week, sellers seeking profits from recent gains and buyers picking up offerings at easier prices to round out portfolios.

Stock market observers, still slightly puzzled at the buying of the last two weeks, this week were even more mystified at why profit taking, that had been expected, did not develop on a larger scale.

Last week all sections were ahead on index, this week only golds showed a gain—less than a point. Industrials after shooting up almost 10 points last week, lost a little over 1½ points. Western oils dropped close to 2 points, but this did little more than dent a seven-point rise a week ago.

But metals were practically unchanged, losing a shade less than ½ point.

United States buyers, credited with the spurt made by western oils last week, were believed behind profit-taking that struck the section Monday.

Oils stayed down until Friday, but by Thursday the selling appeared over.

INDUSTRIALS GAIN

Gains outnumbered losses among industrials. The majority of losses, however, were less than $1.

Golds broke through to a 1958 high of $3.70, up .04 over last week's previous high. The section was easier at the close Friday, but most changes were small with gains about equalling losses.

The Toronto exchange showed 361 issues higher, 345 were down and 153 were unchanged on the week.

Canadian markets will be closed Monday, Victoria Day. New York will be open.

Index changes at Toronto: Industrials off 1.62 to 434.17; golds up .77 to 83.32; base metals off .45 to 151.09; western oils off 1.90 to 134.44.

At the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth; and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.—Phil. 2:10, 11.

Heavy Trade Deficit

While Canada almost certainly will experience a sizable deficit in trade and service transactions with the rest of the world in 1958 and can expect a substantial influx of long-term capital, those contrary balances may not be as large as those of 1956 and 1957, according to the Bank of Montreal's Business Review for April.

Under the title "The Oscillating Dollar," the Review says that last August the Canadian dollar reached a premium of more than six per cent in terms of U.S. funds, highest since trading statistics were established before the war of 1914-18. From this peak, however, the dollar slid sharply in the closing months of 1957 and the premium was below one per cent in January, with a gradual recovery now being experienced.

Such exchange rate fluctuations "constitute an important element of uncertainty in Canadian business," the bank says, especially when, as in 1957, there is a large demand in Canada for foreign exchange to pay for imports and an equally large supply of foreign exchange resulting from incoming capital investments.

Recently published estimates of the Canadian balance of international payments in 1957 point to the size and nature of these influences. In 1957, Canada incurred a deficit in goods and service transactions of $1,383 millions, $11 millions more than in 1956. Offsetting this deficit, the inflow of capital—largely of a long-term nature—was $1,278 millions, $127 millions less than in 1956.

As in previous years, the flow of funds from foreign companies to Canadian subsidiaries continued at a very high rate in 1957 although there was a minor decline. Canadian borrowing in New York, on the other hand, increased, the Bank of Montreal says. "But whereas in 1956 the volume tended to rise as the year progressed, in 1957 the tendency was in the opposite direction," with more than three-quarters of the total net sale of new securities being in the first half of the year.

This sharp decline, probably more than any other element, was responsible for the "precipitate fall" in the exchange rate of the Canadian dollar in the last four months of 1957. In recent months, however, there has been an increase in the volume of Canadian borrowing in New York and the Canadian dollar has risen in terms of U.S. funds.

Concluding, the Review says, "It is noteworthy that, in the last two years, the massive inflow of foreign investment, together with the reinvestment of earnings on assets already held by non-residents in Canada, is estimated to have accounted for roughly a third of the net capital formation in this country and to have raised the value of externally owned long-term investment by some $3.5 billions to a total of more than $17 billions, nearly twice as large as at the start of the current decade."

A Great Day for us All

Last Thursday's day-long program honoring our early pioneers could have been a small city shambles as so many of these things so often turn out to be. Instead, under the chairmanship of Stuart Hawkins in the afternoon at the Centennial Pavilion, and Board of Trade president Alex Walton in the evening, it became just what it was supposed to be—a memorable occasion.

Possibly the evening banquet appealed to us more because it was there we saw the founders of our city as we know it today, relaxed and informal. Exchanging greetings with friends they had not seen for many years, they obviously relished every second of their short time together.

Congratulations are in order to those who worked so hard and long to make the event the success it was.

It was a time for sentiment, warm feelings, and eyes brimming with tears. But it was a sentiment of which we can well be proud.

Some of the pioneers travelled thousands of miles to be with us Thursday. They came from great cities, from other countries. And for a few hours they went back in time to shake the hands of those they sat at school with or worked with in those days when they had nothing but each other to lighten the daily load.

They came back, and heard, as John Masefield heard when he penned his poem "The West Wind":

"It's a warm wind, the west wind, full of birds cries;
I never hear the west wind but tears are in my eyes.
For it comes from the west lands, the old brown hills,
For April's in the west wind, and daffodils.

"It's a fine land, the west land, for hearts as tired as mine,
Apple orchards blossom there and the iris like wine.
There is cool green grass there, where men may lie at rest,
And the thrushes are in song there, fluting from the nest."

And if our day set aside to honor those early workers brought back such memories, and we believe it did, then all who helped, whether they held official positions or just worked in the background, must feel it was all well worth it.

The New Parliament

The new Parliament which started its business Monday has as many problems confronting it as did the last, but it should be in a much better position to deal with them. There is no longer a combined opposition that at any time could overthrow the government. Prime Minister Diefenbaker might be thwarted by a revolt within the Conservative caucus or by a display of defiance from the Liberal-controlled Senate, but at the moment neither of these developments appears likely.

A special responsibility will, however, devolve upon both the private members on the government side and upon the Senate, to see that all measures receive the fullest consideration before they are finally adopted. The opposition has never been numerically weaker than it is in the present House of Commons and, although it has a number of experienced and able members, it is bound to be overworked. Thus criticism will on the whole be less effective.

The test of this Parliament's worth will come early. The session begins amid uncertainty both at home and abroad. Except in its trade policies, the Canadian government's influence in international affairs may be a limited one, but there are fewer obstacles to action on the domestic front. The Diefenbaker government, so far as the constitution will allow, can change much of the pattern of Canadian life for better or worse.

The new Parliament will open at a time when, in spite of a lag in economic activity, the consumer price index is still moving upward. Inflation is clearly a factor to be reckoned with, and the government's fiscal policies have to be examined in that light as they develop. Decisions must be reached as to whether to hold the tariff line or to give more protection to home industry, including agriculture.

There are plenty of other problems for Parliament. Housing is one. Laying the foundations for a national health plan is another. Tax-sharing relations between the federal and provincial authorities remain in an indefinite state. Broadcasting policy is expected to be up for review. Sooner or later, also, the position of the railways in the national economy must be studied in a more thorough fashion than has been done hitherto. Some hints as to the government's intentions in such matters as these were given in the Speech from the Throne Monday.

One danger is that the Diefenbaker government will interpret its overwhelming success at the polls March 31 as a blank cheque from the Canadian people. Yet its victory was spectacular only in terms of seats; its popular support as measured by votes was much less decisive. There is a challenge to Parliament to keep a rein on a cabinet that may at times be tempted to take hasty and even reckless action.

UNITED KINGDOM OPINION

Londoners Get Used to Walking

By "ONLOOKER"
THOMSON NEWSPAPERS
London, England, Bureau

My feet hurt.

Don't bother to extend sympathy. Aching feet are a fairly common complaint here right now, during the first London bus strike since 1937.

So far, the strike, 1958 edition, has been going strong for over a week. There have been rows in Parliament, behind the scenes, and among the strikers (though the last have been more amicable than usual). And, when the strike was only a few days old, the railway strike—covering not only London but all over the country—started to brew anew.

During the bus strike, London's commuters have been making do. "It may never happen" was an attitude which, I remarked last week, Londoners adopted as the bus strike loomed. And when it did happen Londoners seemed to accept it calmly. The war-time air raids gave them plenty of experience in travelling when transport systems were disorganized—and when they were having sleepless nights.

SHOW-DOWN

In Parliament, opposition speakers have been declaring that the Conservative government in power wants to have a show-down with the trade unions and cry halt to the demands for more pay. That is why Labor Minister Iain MacLeod sat mute for a whole week throughout the strike, promising to "intervene when the right moment came".

But he has acted in the case of a railway stoppage. He has invited labor and trade union chiefs to meet him to avert a stoppage. But at the moment it seems as if the government will have to produce a better come-back to the railwaymen if they are to get sympathy.

True, the solution they offer is sound, but it is too long-term to satisfy potential strikers at the moment. What the Government is offering in fact, is the granting of more money to Britain's nationalized railways so that they can modernize their equipment and stations and attract more customers.

But railwaymen want something more. And it does seem as if the offer is a little cock-eyed. It is like saying to a railway engineer in Toronto: "No—we won't give you any more pay. But we'll put up a new station for your pals in Vancouver."

Another row is brewing over here—mostly a behind-scenes one.

On one side: Defence Minister Sandys, son-in-law (but only incidentally) of war-time leader Churchill, who is determined to push through a streamlining plan for the three services and make British forces more and more dependent on missiles for defence. He declares that, for instance, Britain's Royal Air Force will not need any fighter beyond the P-1 supersonic type which should be reaching squadrons in a year or so, and that the mighty "V" bombers Britain is building are obsolete then missiles will be so advanced that she won't need bombers any more.

On the other side of the argument: most of the high ranking officers in the air force.

But the row stepped into public limelight this week with a conference the air chiefs held to which they invited among others, the Duke of Edinburgh, industrialists, and politicians of both main parties. And the airman bluntly declared their belief that manned military aircraft will be needed far into the 1970's.

CLEFT STICK

Duncan Sandys has the power to demand the sacking of some of the rebels against his policy, but he is a cleft stick. He must be casting his mind back just 20 years.

Then, a very young Member of Parliament who was also a Territorial (Reserve) officer got up in the House of Commons and asserted that he had in his possession information showing how bad Britain's anti-aircraft defences were—and that he had been summoned to appear before a military court because he had that information.

But his fellow parliamentarians were quick to save him, saying that Parliament is a "place of privilege".

The young Member of Parliament was Duncan Sandys. . .

BRAVE MAN

A respectful salute to one Doctor Svenson. He was one of the guests of honor at the birthday dinner of the British Association of Women Executives, and was asked along because the women wanted to "pay homage to the understanding and encouragement of husbands who allow their wives to pursue an independent career".

Doctor Svenson is the husband of British ballerina Beryl Grey. Among those at the dinner: a women engineer who built Bailey bridges during the war, a women director of a driving school, a woman director of an insecticides firm, and a woman gunsmith.

It certainly seemed to be an event that men should have missed. But Doctor Svenson turned up.

DIVERSION

Since Sweet Adeline has been discarded as a quartet number, authorities are again falling back on a blood analysis as the only reliable intoxication test.

Poland's Reds are "worried because consumption of vodka has increased there by 2 1/2 times in 20 years." What do they think it ought to be, 20 times in 2 1/2 years?

A four-leaf clover is reputed to bring good luck to the finder. The luck is all the better, though, if the finder is ambitious and hard-working.

The nuclear testing sites may be quiet in Russia, but it is a sure thing scientists are still working on improvements and that the boys are still manning the drawing boards.

Indication of three places that a lot of people dislike is a contemporary's remark that a perfect bore, is one who was born in Texas, attended the University of Toronto and now lives in Winnipeg.

Canadians are advised to spend money to make employment and save it to avoid inflation. That way, it seems, we'll pay more welfare and reduce our taxes.

A CPR diesel engine set a new record when it pulled a string of 157 freight cars a mile and a half long through Yorkton, Saskatchewan. But the real sight was the line up of motor vehicles at the railway crossing.

Calgary, where ordinary apple trees are hard to grow, is proposing to plant crab-apple trees on the residential streets. The small boys will doubtless rejoice—and, later, suffer.

Canada under Prime Minister Diefenbaker's leadership appears to be facing the strange phenomenon of simultaneous high prices and recession with equanimity. The healthiest feature is that workers are showing more interest in getting and holding jobs.

It's Not Cute if Tot Persists in Baby Talk

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Baby talk may be cute for a while. But if your youngster persists with phrases like "My wife wed twick I daw" after the age of six, you had better take action.

Generally, baby talk in six and eight-year-olds is a signal of retarded development, or infantile preservation. If parents are alert, and aware of the problem, these speech defects usually can be cured, if they are caught in time.

SPECIAL THERAPY

About 5 per cent of Chicago's school children have various speech disorders serious enough to require special speech therapy, according to Dr. Margaret Hall Powers, speech specialist for the Chicago Board of Education. The national average, she reports, is about the same.

Some 80 per cent of these speech disorders in Chicago area children receiving therapy are avoidable types, such as extending use of baby talk, lisping, lolling and stuttering.

HINDER PROGRESS

Speech disorders, like baby talk in older children, can hinder a child's academic progress and social adjustment at school, even though he may have the same intelligence capacity as his classmates.

Speech retardation, naturally causes poor articulation. This leads to confusion and difficulty in learning to read and spell. Obviously, this can lead to frustration, embarrassment and humiliation and ultimately result in feelings of insecurity and inferiority.

CAUSE OF INABILITY

Inability of a child to produce language sounds, Dr. Powers explains, usually is related to parental methods of child training and the nature of child-parent relationships.

The emotional atmosphere surrounding the young child is an effective force in determining his speech development.

Dr. Powers says that when the mother, in particular, is not a source of pleasure and gratification to the infant, the speech sounds she makes become negatively conditioned and the child tends to reject them and withdraw from them.

DELAYED DEVELOPMENT

Thus, he is not motivated to produce speech sounds himself and his speech development is delayed and distorted. Conditioning the child to face stresses, she says, may prevent speech disturbances.

As for extended baby talk, Dr. Powers explains that infantile perseveration is likely to be associated with general immaturity in the child. Usually, it is the child who lacks motivation for growing up, who finds strong emotional satisfaction in remaining a dependent, protected baby, who is likely to spout baby talk at the age of six or older.

FREEZING GERMANY?

German nuclear rearmament would freeze the status quo almost beyond recall. It is highly probable that if the West Germans were armed with nuclear weapons they would never give them up. The addition of Germany to the West's "heavyweights" would inevitably lead the Russians to tighten their grip on the eastern part of the country in order to secure it as a nuclear base against Bonn's new strength.

This all leads in the direction of a heavier commitment by both Russia and the United States in the defence of the two Germanys, directly or indirectly. Their intentions over East and West Germany may well be the quintessence of their intentions as a whole. If they are not prepared to keep nuclear armaments out of Germany they can hardly be expected to reach a general disarmament agreement.

GHOSTS IN N.B.

New Brunswick has its ghostly "fire ship" of Bay Chaleur, and for that matter any number of spine-chilling haunted houses and famous ghosts ashore. But we have never had a good sea (or lake) monster, at least not one that was well publicized, and that is distinctly a disadvantage to our tourist industry.

As British Columbians know, there is nothing like a fire-snorting denizen of the deep to attract visitors—preferably one that allows itself to be frequently seen by everyone except photographers.

NARAMATA GUIDES, BROWNIES SELL COOKIES

Thirteen cartons of cookies were sold by the Naramata Girl Guides and Brownies in their recent "Cookie Week" project. The two groups working under the general supervision of Mrs. Cliff Nettleton visited every home in the village centre and in the orchard areas. They realized a sum of sixty-four dollars from their all-day project. Mothers assisting with cars included Mrs. William Gawne, Mrs. J. C. Donald, Mrs. Jack Buckley, Mrs. Ken Pattison, Mrs.

Stuart Berry, Mrs. Fred Ritchie and Mrs. W. G. Clough, president of the local association. In the above picture the girls are shown as they leave the home of Mrs. Nettleton early in the morning to begin their round of the community, left to right, Brownie Barbara Thompson, Guide Sheila Thompson, Brownie Sandra Nettleton, and Brownie Donna Smith. Guide Helen Donald is standing in back.

Another group of energetic "cookie-sellers" is shown just before leaving by Mrs. Gawne's car to visit the district assigned to them. Brownie Louise Gawne is standing in front of the three Guides, Nancy Stanforth, Sue Workman and Wendy Bowring.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Woman Sees Empty Life Ahead, Man She Wants Sidesteps Her

Dear Mary Haworth: I hope you can help me in my unhappy situation. I am an unmarried woman, 31, and feel that I have messed up my life; that there isn't much to look forward to. I am a college graduate, a good dresser, considered attractive, and I work in a professional field. I was engaged about eight years ago, but broke the engagement before wedding preparations got under way, as I felt I didn't love the man enough for marriage. Since then my social life has been dull, though the man still takes me out occasionally, and wonders why I have never married.

About five years ago I met a very nice professional man, I'll call him Mike, and knew him for about a year before he asked me for a date. It had been a year of anxious waiting on my part—hoping and praying that he would become interested in me. But after that one date he didn't ask me again.

I am in a state of mind, if possible in the circumstances. At 31 I should have more sense, but maybe I have a complex? I do feel self-conscious, wonder how I look, try to say the right thing, etc., when people are around. Your commentary will be much appreciated. —N.S.

TOO DEPENDENT FOR MAN'S TASTE
Dear N.S.: You say that you lead a rather dull life; which means that you would be a dull girl, from a man's viewpoint. Your life is dull because you have a discouraged attitude; and in turn, the dullness of your days makes you feel ever more apathetic. Thus you are caught in a vicious circle of dreariness—and this is a social condition that others sense, and definitely are not attracted to.

DON'T ADJUST TO FRUSTRATION
You aren't in love with Mike. You've simply latched on to the idea of him because he's not taken; and apparently not notably interested in any woman—which seems to leave the field open to you. However, your concentrated yen for him probably has registered on his mind by now—in terms of vague awareness, in your company, that you seem to see him as somebody special. Thus he has explored the possibility of liking you, on a couple of dates, and each time drifted away without much caring. As for where you fail to catch and hold him—I suppose it's because your life and personality seem colorless as if you had nothing to bring to companionship, and would expect the man to provide the friends and resources for social variety. This is the era of the male clinging vine, experts say; a century wherein men expect to be courted and won by competent women, who diplomatically lead the way in establishing a partnership that promises to be mutually profitable—and fun. As for how to attain peace of mind, I don't advise resignation to your frustration. Rather I advocate a season of psychiatric inquiry into the "whys" of your defeatist complex—so that you can shake off the fetters of limited thinking, and organize your force to really go after the life you want. Read "Stake Your Claim" (Harpers) by Emmet Fox, to get the pitch of positive being. Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Penticton Herald, Penticton, B.C.

Annual Banquet Held By CGIT Department

Canadian Girls in Training, graduating Explorers and mothers were among the 192 attending the annual Mother and Daughter banquet and graduation ceremony of the CGIT department of the Penticton United Church.

Miss Janice Walton, a member of a senior group, was chosen president and will assume her new duties in September. Retiring president Miss Marilyn Hatt presided over the ceremonies held following the banquet.

Miss Gail Ansell proposed the toast to the Queen, Miss Sue Hatt, mother of the retiring president, and Miss Betty-Ann Merrick gave the toast to the church, with the response given by Mrs. E. W. Unwin, a member of the session.

ADDRESS BY ITS DEAN
The guest speaker, Mrs. Packham, Dean of Women at the Naramata Christian Leadership Training School; Mrs. Graham Knight, president of the Women's Federation; Mrs. Unwin and Mrs. Hatt, Mrs. Pat Higgins, president of the Mothers' Auxiliary, was also the recipient of a corsage from the girls with the presentation being made by Miss Connie Johnson.

Corsages were presented to the special guests, Mrs. G. S. Packham, Dean of Women at the Naramata Christian Leadership Training School; Mrs. Graham Knight, president of the Women's Federation; Mrs. Unwin and Mrs. Hatt, Mrs. Pat Higgins, president of the Mothers' Auxiliary, was also the recipient of a corsage from the girls with the presentation being made by Miss Connie Johnson.

Frothy Fabrics for This Year's Bride
Brides of 1958 will float to the altar on yards and yards of sheer weightless fabrics—billowing lace, misty organza, frothy tulle. Romantic designs emphasize dipping, trailing and draping hemlines, lower and more open necklines, and cap or elbow sleeves. One full white organza embroidered in tulle has a sweeping skirt with insipid length in front that gradually lengthens to a short train in back. Another peacock train begins slender and fans out as it lengthens.

BLENDED FABRICS
Travel clothes top many wardrobe "musts." Smartest are those of cotton or blended tweeds, frocks with matching jackets, either full length or straight hipbone. Any number of pocketable fabrics are available for the traveller who doesn't want to be burdened with a hatbox.

Daniel-Fryer Rites Performed at Comox

Protestant Chapel, Wallace Gardens at the RCAF Station, Comox, was the setting for a ceremony of wide local interest uniting in marriage Edna Ethel Fryer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley B. Fryer, Kaleden, and Donald Laverne Daniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Daniel, of Berwick, Nova Scotia. Padre J. K. Goldie officiated for the young couple who are both stationed with the air force at Comox.

When the young couple left for a honeymoon trip to Victoria, Seattle and Vancouver Island centres, the bride was charmingly attired in a black linen chemise dress with white duster coat and white accessories. They will reside in Courtenay.

The bride, who is the granddaughter of pioneer Okanagan Valley residents, the late Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Fryer, Vernon, and the late Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Penderay, Victoria, will remain in the RCAF. She is attached to the Meteorological Department of the Service.

Mrs. Brian Folkard, as her only attendant, chose a frock of aqua-blue fashioned of tissue taffeta in waltz length. Her bouquet was formed of pastel colored blooms.

Robert O'Neil of the RCAF at Comox, was best man, and ushers were Stuart Tait and Bill Houston, also from the air force. Mrs. W. Brooks was wedding organist.

Several attractions, aside from the style display, have been planned for the occasion, and progress reports were presented at the well-attended meeting.

A raffle will be held under the supervision of Mrs. Juan Puddy and a sale of home cooking by Mrs. Graham Knight and Mrs. A. A. Swift.

Artistic table decorations appropriate to the Hawaiian theme chosen for tea and show will be arranged by Mrs. W. F. Gartrell, while the Siamous will be decorated by Mrs. Juan Puddy and Mrs. F. S. Manery.

Mrs. L. H. Hill will convene the style presentation with the Hawaiian fashions to be shown by the Grass Shack.

Other members heading committees are: Mrs. Fred Kay, refreshments; Mrs. Robert G. McLachlan, tea tickets; Mrs. Alex Tough, serviettes; Mrs. Graham Knight and Mrs. Thomas Watts, publicity.

The meeting, conducted by Mrs. James Beasom, adjourned

VISITS CANADIAN TRAINING CRUISER

Sir Edmund Hillary, conqueror of Mt. Everest and more recently in the news for his Antarctic explorations, was a visitor on board the Canadian training cruiser HMCS Ontario during her call

Air Defence Agreement To Be Tabled Monday

OTTAWA (CP) — A written agreement detailing a Canadian-American plan in the event of Soviet air attack on this continent is to be tabled Monday in the Commons.

The New York Times says the agreement authorizes the joint forces to retaliate "without governmental consultation" but covers only tactical defence weapons—"and not strategic nuclear bombers which can be loosed in retaliation for an enemy attack only upon the authority of the president."

This concurs with the Canadian government's previously announced ideas about the agreement as voiced by Defence Minister Pearson in the Commons.

SET UP LAST AUGUST

This is the background: Canada and the United States last Aug. 1 established the North American Air Defence Command at Colorado Springs, Colo., operating on a temporary and verbal agreement.

Its commander is Gen. Earle Partridge of the U.S. Air Force and his deputy is Air Marshal Roy Slemmon, former RCAF chief of staff.

The two countries then set about drafting an agreement on what NORAD should do if a Soviet air attack materialized against North America.

Canada's defence and external affairs departments scanned the draft, added comment and passed it along to Washington in January. It was one of the topics discussed by External Affairs Minister Smith on a subsequent visit.

MEETS DEADLINE

Now it has been returned by Washington, helping meet a Canadian government desire that it be available shortly after the opening of the new Parliament.

In remarks about the pending agreement—subject of Opposition questioning in the last Parliament—Mr. Pearson spoke of the need for Canada and the U.S. to be considered a single entity for air defence purposes. Their air force units should act as a single team.

An emergency such as a Soviet air assault would leave little time for consultation and the agreement would establish conditions under which RCAF squadrons could be ordered into battle from Colorado Springs without approval being sought from the Canadian government.

Canada's defence and external affairs departments scanned the draft, added comment and passed it along to Washington in January. It was one of the topics

$1,000 Grant Aids New Health Centre At Summerland

VANCOUVER — (CP) — Grants of $1,000 each have been approved by the B.C. Child Care and Pooled Fund to help finance construction of health units in Trail and Summerland.

Kinsmen clubs in both cities are helping to raise funds for construction of the centres.

The fund provides treatment and rehabilitation services for handicapped children. It also sponsors neurological and child care research.

Keep a nut securely on a bolt by dipping the bolt into shellac before screwing on the nut. A wrench or pliers will loosen the bond when you wish.

Cement Masons Return to Work

VANCOUVER (CP) — Cement masons picketed the civic auditorium, the B.C. Telephone Co. building and several other city projects Friday but went back to work when contractors agreed to new talks.

In a recent strike vote 16 of 22 masons eligible to vote approved a strike. They are demanding a 70-cent an hour increase over their present $2.30 an hour.

A conciliation board recommendation for a 10-cent an hour increase was rejected.

Union officials said there will be no more picketing until after the new talks with employers scheduled for next Wednesday.

Five-Year Old Girl Drowns in Well

CHEMUNUS, B.C. (CP) — A five-year-old girl was drowned in a well near here Friday night. Police said the girl was Christine Louie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Louie of the Chemunus Indian Reserve, about 1½ miles south of town.

The girl had been missing only a short while before her body was found.

Poor Weather Hampers Hunt For Lost Plane

WINNIPEG (CP) — Fog and low-hanging clouds have virtually curtailed an air search for a civilian plane missing deep inside the Arctic circle with four men aboard.

The RCAF said today a civilian DC-3 piloted by Robert Hamilton, 37, of Dorval, Que. Also aboard were co-pilot J. M. Simard, 27, of Montreal, George Podolsky, Ottawa physicist, and Kenneth Darke, believed from Toronto.

LOST WEDNESDAY

The two-engine craft disappeared on a flight Wednesday from Hell Lake, on Melville Peninsula 150 miles north of the Arctic circle to a mining camp at Strathcona Sound on the northern tip of Baffin Island. Baffin Island is 400 miles inside the Arctic circle and 1,500 miles north of here.

Temperatures in the mountainous area were in the mid-20s and there was some cloud and light snow. Better flying conditions were expected today.

A hunt by civilian and United States ice patrol planes in the area failed to locate the plane. It was carrying full survival equipment and an emergency radio.

The air force said nine planes are waiting at bases throughout northeastern Canada for the weather to clear.

League Plans To Publicize Role of Navy

EDMONTON (CP) — The Navy League of Canada has decided to educate Canadians in naval functions during a two-day semi-annual meeting here of 20 leaders from coast and inland cadet groups.

League leaders attending the conference leave for home today. Friday they resolved to publicize the role of the navy in protecting Canadian coasts.

A statement said "the league has decided to increase its efforts in educating the public in maritime matters."

National president C. K. McLeod of Montreal said the program is "most desirable at this time." He pointed out that aside from organization of cadet corps, education has always been a prime league objective.

AUTOMOTIVE PARTS SALESMAN WANTED

An experienced salesman required to sell automotive parts, one who is interested in building a secure future with the Canadian Subsidiary of a long established U.S. Organization, with a Dun and Bradstreet rating of AAA-1. We pay our top salesmen commission in excess of $10,000 individually per year. The salesman must be capable of functioning independently, 30 to 45 years of age, married, a good mixer and motivated by a desire through hard work to earn a high rate of earnings without close supervision.

The most important credential with which we are concerned is that the applicant has established a record of being a successful salesman with a past record of reliability. He must have a car in good condition and be able to finance himself for sixty days to work the general trading area of Penticton, calling on Authorized Dealerships, Independent Garages, Construction Companies and Fleet Accounts. This is a proven territory with a large volume of already established business. A real opportunity awaits the fortunate applicant.

Apply to National Employment Service, 152 Main St., Penticton, when personal interviews will be arranged to meet the applicants at the Prince Charles Hotel, Penticton, B.C., June 2nd and 3rd, 1958.

Opening lead—three of clubs.

Opening lead—three of clubs. The messages that can be transmitted in a sound partnership, whether during the bidding or play, are certainly remarkable.

The limited vocabulary of some sixteen words that can be used during the bidding is sufficient to enable a skilled partnership to arrive at the best contract in the overwhelming majority of hands.

During the play period, when silence is the order of the day, only the cards themselves can be eloquent in the exchange of information between the defending pair.

The defenders can speak their piece effectively in many ways. Conventions that have been employed over the years, often help greatly in solving defensive problems.

On Monday: Another Famous Hand is presented by Mr. Becker.

lems which the common sense of a situation could not.

A choice of plays which appears to be only guesswork can in many times be successfully worked out in a sensitive partnership. The rapport which should exist between partners can save many points that might otherwise be lost.

Here is a simple example of partnership cooperation where all that is required is the proper use and interpretation of a convention introduced a quarter century ago.

West opens his singleton club which East wins with the ace to return the deuce. West ruffs. If he returns a diamond, the contract is defeated because he obtains another club ruff, but if West returns a spade, declarer makes the contract.

The convention to guide West in such a position is simple enough. All that is required is that both defenders be familiar with it.

Since East can choose any club to return for the hoped-for ruff, he selects the one to play which will indicate the suit he wants returned.

The return of a low club indicates East wants the lower-ranking of the two side suits, diamonds and spades, returned. Hence, the deuce is led, asking for a diamond lead back when West ruffs.

If East's entry card were the ace of spades, he would return the ten of clubs, asking for spades, the higher-ranking suit. High-high; low-low.

Sensitive Dramas Highlight Festival

HALIFAX (CP) — Two more plays, both sensitive dramas, will be staged before the 1958 Dominion Drama Festival ends tonight.

Governor General Massey will present the winning awards. The afternoon performance will be the London Little Theatre. All Summer Long, by players from Coaldale, Alta., will be the wind-up.

British adjudicator Philip Hope-Wallace's adjudication of Friday night's French play Ciel et Mecanique by the Le Guignol a Moustaches Players of Montreal was lukewarm. He called it a "thin offering."

ONLY AMUSED

The play, about St. Peter and heaven's problems, was termed "typical French-Canadian" by Mr. Hope-Wallace. "I admired it and was amused, but not transported."

Witness for the Prosecution is Agatha Christie's famous court drama. The London group is recognized as one of Canada's oldest and most proficient amateur dramatic organizations. The players have appeared in the festival seven times in the last 10 years.

Coaldale, a southern Alberta community of 2,500, is the smallest town to represent a province. Director of All Summer Long is school teacher Murray J. Robinson.

The play is a psychological drama of a young, idealistic son who tries, all summer long, to protect his young brother from the cheapness and sentimentality of his brash family. Heading the cast of seven are David Manning and Russell Fairhurst as Mr. Hope-Wallace. "I admired the brothers."

Claims 100,000 Reds in Canada

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—The un-American affairs committee of the House of Representatives today made public an estimate by a Canadian witness that there are 100,000 Communists in Canada.

The estimate came from Milan Jakubec of Toronto, who described himself as president of the executive council of the Mutual Co-operation League of Canada, made up of 18 various ethnic groups originating behind the Iron Curtain.

Jakubec, Slovakian-born employee of the Ontario government who came to Canada in 1953 and appeared before the committee at his own suggestion, said in testimony taken last April 3 that while it is difficult to say how many Communists there are in any country, he would estimate that there are approximately 100,000 in Canada.

UNDER VARIED LABELS

"These may be composed from a number of regular members of the Labor-Progressive party, covering the Communist party of Canada, and the rest or a greater part is composed from various innocent-sounding organizations, usually posing as international, humanitarian, pacifist, youth, labor, religious, beneficial, insurance or literary organizations and associations of which there may be in Canada as such."

He estimated there are 23 Communist newspapers published in Canada in various languages. Jakubec claimed also that Communist activities in Canada are financed by $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 which he said Soviet agents collect annually in Canada as "customs duties" from Canadians sending food and clothing parcels to relatives in the Soviet Union.

Canadians wishing to send parcels to Soviet relatives went to a Soviet agency in Canada and picked out merchandise which the agency undertook to send, because there was no parcel post to the Soviet Union.

SPREAD THE WORD

"There are various agencies, and the leading one is called Ukrainka Knyha. This agency was able, for example, to buy and renovate a number of buildings in Toronto itself, and in these buildings they have various materials, books and Communist propaganda also, which are, of course, for sale to the public in general."

Jakubec, who said he also is president of the Slovak Legion, said his groups had "great difficulties" bringing the realities of the Communist threat to Canada's former Liberal government.

"They disregarded our advice and warnings completely and felt that communism is not as dangerous inside of Canada as it is outside. They have absolutely ignored the ideological terms of communism and thought only in terms of military attack, which in our opinion is a secondary thing."

His group found the Conservatives "more favorable" to their views.

Jakubec, who fled from the Iron Curtain after the war before going to Canada in 1953, said a number of trained Communist agents had infiltrated the displaced persons and other refugee groups that had been admitted to Canada.

Gov't Plans No Probe of Norman Case

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has no intention of appointing a royal commission to investigate the Norman case, External Affairs Minister Smith said Friday in the commons.

He also said there is no record to indicate that the previous Liberal government intended before Herbert Norman's death by suicide April 4, 1957, to establish a royal commission to inquire into the case.

Mr. Smith was replying to Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) who asked whether there had ever been any proposal for appointment of a royal commission by the government.

Mr. Winch had referred to Washington accounts of the latest report of the U.S. Senate internal security subcommittee again alleging that Norman was a Communist. Norman was Canadian ambassador to Egypt at the time of his death.

The subcommittee claimed that the U.S. central intelligence agency has a memorandum quoting Norman as saying that he feared he would be called before a royal commission and might implicate 60 or 70 other persons.

Stiff Regulations For Boat Drivers

VANCOUVER (CP)—Drinking drivers now face jail sentences if they get behind the wheel of a power boat.

New department of transport regulations have given more power to police in patrolling waterways.

The regulations, just received by the water safety section of the B.C. Safety Council, also provide for hit and run, failing to stop at an accident and dangerous driving.

Maximum penalty for the offences is a fine up to $500 or six months in jail. Courts are also empowered to prohibit convicted boaters from operating their vessels for one year.

All boats with motors over 10 horsepower must be licensed.

DESIGN DEPT. THE BUILDING CENTRE PLAN SERVICE

PLAN NO. 2091

TOP FLOOR FLOOR AREA: 644 SQ. FT.

GROUND FLOOR FLOOR AREA: 1447 SQ. FT.

This is an ideal family home designed for gracious living — a one and a half storey house designed for NHA approval. It features large living and dining areas with handy utility room adjacent to the kitchen which has ample cupboard and work counters. There is a large master bedroom on the main floor and a den which could double as an office for the man of the house, while for Mother, there is a private sewing room along with the two bedrooms on the upper floor, and a second set of plumbing for the convenience of the whole family. Plenty of closet space throughout the house for the whole family, while the basement has a future recreation room and large storage areas along with furnace and laundry room. Working drawings available from the Building Centre (B.C.) Ltd., 1240 W. Broadway, Vancouver 9.
